In order to provide the best app as possible, focused and tailored to your preferences, dealing with eventual requests and complaints, inform you about changes in our product, understand your preferences in the choices made inside the app, in a way that will create a pleasant experience, it is important to have some information about you, so please read our Privacy Policy and Terms of Use carefully.

Your privacy is our concern. We're committed to preserve it

Our privacy policy aims to ensure you that any information related to the user, will not be provided, published, marketed or sold in any circumstances, that is, your information is safe and will not be sent to third parties.

Collection of User Information

GuestCon application does not collect any data regarding the user's use of the application.

All user data is kept only within the device itself, except for the necessary credentials so that the registration of the SIP extension can be done at the PBX.

Analytics

The GuestCon application uses Flurry Analytics to collect statistical and analytical information on how users use the application, but no information about the users themselves. All data is completely anonymous and don't expose any of the personal information regarding the user.

Cost

The GuestCon app is free of charge.
